Proxet's Real Estate Bulletin

This month, we're sharing how a data strategy of doing less is more is helping companies in and outside of real estate unlock new opportunities, reduce costs, and build a competitive advantage.

From helping Zus Health streamline healthcare data to mentoring the next generation of AI innovators, we're exploring how to get more out of your technology investments. We hope you'll find these insights valuable.

Master your processes: join the webinar to see AI in action

Join Proxet's Head of Real Estate Solutions Gabriel Safar and experts from Visitt, Johnson Controls, and FM:Systems for a Realcomm webinar on the future of commercial real estate.

🎤 Topic: Supercharge Your CRE Processes: AI & Machine Learning in Action

🗓️ Date and time: October 23 at 12 pm ET

ℹ️ About: Discover how to transform commercial real estate workflows using AI and machine learning. Learn how to augment traditional automation tools for data cleanup, lease administration, and tenant engagement.

Get data to deliver

Data isn't just for tech giants anymore. This post explores why data is your most valuable asset and the critical steps you need to take to avoid being left behind.

See how your business can evolve with data 🌱 🌿 🌲

A new approach to data savings

"The cost drops enormously if you don't need to build all the connectors [between your data applications]. Applications are evolving, and [building connectors] is an expensive, time-consuming, and unglamorous set of activities that potentially are entirely unnecessary.
So, if an organization can step up and eliminate the need to do those connectors, it would be a paradigm shift in our industry's ability to assess information, combine various sources, and answer business questions..."
